PREFACE

In the name of Allah, the most Beneficent the most Merciful

Praise be to ALLAH, the Lord of the Universe, and greetings and blessings on MUHEMMED, the Last of the Prophets, as well as his household and Companions.

Finding the simillimum (the similar, the curing remedy) is the ideal approach according to classical Homoeopathy but it needs thorough knowledge of materia medica, philosophy, experience and lot of time for repertorization of every patient which is quite difficult in present days. That's why successful classical Hahnemanian homoeopaths are very few.

One of the Hahnemanns close associates named Ageidie, the personal physician to the prince of Prussia informed Hahnemann of his experiences of using multiple, mixed homoeopathic remedies to cure illnesses. Ageidie's results impressed Hahnemann, who then reported them at a seminar of homoeopathic physicians and suggested experimenting with such mixed remedies.

It has been observed that the complicated cases do not respond well or at all to the single remedy, probably due to wrong selection of remedy or due to the pollution of air with trace quantities of toxic substances, cigarette smoking and passive smoking. Tobacco chewing, drug ingestion, background radiation, chlorination and pollution of drinking water, adulteration of food and preservatives; other chemicals in food and beverages also antidote the effects of homoeopathic remedies. It necessitates the use of complementary remedies to neutralise the effects of such pollutants.

The famous dictum of Hahnemann is “Experiment and see the results and hold fast to what is proved”.

The same dictum inspired me to devise and prove the efficacy of the mixed remedies and present the research work to the profession. This will indeed help the practitioners in treating the patients in a much better, speedy and convenient way. It will also contribute to the cause of the profession. That's the sole aim behind this venture. These formulas have following advantages.

1. Immediate curative and palliative response has been observed. Thus it saves the time and satisfies the patients and the doctor.
2. Results are better and permanent.
3. No aggravation or healing crisis occurs, which is more common with the single remedy treatment.

4. Complicated cases respond better to formulas than a single remedy. Thus formulas have a wider and deeper spectrum of action than a single remedy.
5. Most of the formulas in this book has been carefully and repeatedly tested by me.
6. In many cases remedies behave better in a formula than they act when applied alone.
7. No toxic side effects have been observed in the potency range specified in this work.

I wish to express my appreciation and gratitude to Dr. Tanvir Ahmed, Dr. Sohail Akhtar Malik, Dr. Liaqat Ali Shahzad, Syed Ishtiaq Hussain Shah, Mr. Zahid Hussain and all others for their valuable work towards the compilation of this book. Suggestions from readers are most welcome for further improvement.

This work is presented to the profession with a pride, confidence and hope that they will use these formulas in their clinical and family practice and have results better than ever before (Insha-Allah).

HOMOEOPATHY

Definition

"A rational system (science and art) of healing, based on the principles that agents which produce certain signs and symptoms in healthy individuals, also cure these signs and symptoms in the sick and that the more a drug is diluted in a specific way, the more powerful (energetic) it becomes."

Introduction

The principle of "like treating like" is about 244 years old. Although it has been opposed by the medical profession but modern medical men are not aware of the fact that they themselves are using the same principle in everyday medical practice. For example the modern immunization system or vaccination against poliomyelitis, cholera, typhoid fever, diphtheria, hepatitis and other infectious diseases are being done on the "like cures like principle". Through these vaccines a small dose of dead or altered bacteria or viruses is introduced into the body so that body could build up its own defences against those particular organisms. In this system it is claimed that antigenicity of organisms is retained but the toxicity is reduced. Other examples are the usage of pollen to desensitize the patients; the use of x-rays and radium known to cause cancer, is being used to cure cancer.

The rational behind the principle is that a substance that actually induces symptoms similar to the disease probably stimulates the disease-fighting systems in the body and so helps in curing the disease.

AIM OF HOMEOPATHY

To cure gently, rapidly, certainly and permanently without any toxic side effects; choosing in every case of disease, a medicine which can itself produce an artificial disease similar to the disorder to be treated.

THE FOUNDER OF HOMOEOPATHY

The celebrated German physician Christian Samuel Freidrich Hahnemann was born on 10th April 1755 in Meissen, Prussia (now in East Germany). He was an allopathic physician. He discovered Homoeopathy in 1790, two 244 years ago. He graduated in Medicine in 1779 at Erlangen. In 1796 he published a booklet on “like cures like”. In 1810 he published the first edition of “Rational Healing (the Organon of Healing Art)” which presented the principles of homoeopathic doctrine. He published its five editions and the sixth was published after his death, in twentieth century. In 1811 & 1812 his Materia Medica was published in six volumes. In 1828 he published “Chronic Diseases”. He died in 1843 at the age of 88 years and was buried in a small cemetery in Monmartre. He was reburied in Pire Lachese in 1898, in the company of the immortals of France, and his tomb finally permitted to bear the inscription he had requested; Non inutilis vixi (“I have not lived in vain”). He was real genius. A linguist, who was expert in sixteen languages, a master of chemistry and a Doctor of Medicine. Since 1790 to 1842 Hahnemann kept on testing (proving) the medicinal substances on himself, his friends and his pupils, in order to determine their physical, mental and moral effects precisely. He tested about one hundred agents upon himself. It is quite interesting that the provings had never been detrimental to health, but on the contrary, they raised the resistance of the provers.

“THE VITALISTIC PRINCIPLE AND HIGHER PURPOSES OF OUR EXISTENCE”

“In the healthy condition of man, the spiritual vital force (autocracy), the dynamis that animates the material body (organism), rules with unbounded sway, and retains all parts of the organism in admirable, harmonious, vital operations, as regards both sensations and function, so that our indwelling, reason-gifted mind can freely employ this living, healthy instrument for the higher purposes of our existence.” (Aphorism.9 “The Organon of Medicine”

S. Hahnemann)

THE PROVINGS?

Homoeopathic proving were aimed at eliciting the detailed and precise physical, mental and moral signs and symptoms, alongwith the subjective sensations. The precise nature and modalities of all the symptoms, especially the emotional ones can only be obtained from human beings. Examples of such psychological and emotional symptoms are as under, alongwith their treatment.

Depression to the verge of suicide-Aurum metallicum

The insane jealousy of-Lachesis

The terror of insanity of-Mancinella

The irritability and intolerance of pain-Chamomilla

The suspicion and restlessness of-Arsenic album

The terrors of anticipation of-Argentum nitricum

The fear of death of-Aconite and Arsenic album

The sensation of tallness and superiority of-Platina

The sensation of unreality of-Medorrhinum

The sensation of two wills of-Anacardium

The indifference to loved ones of-Sepia and Phosphorus

Hahnemann said about his doctrine that

"Refute these truths, if you can, by showing a still more efficacious, certain and agreeable method than mine; refute them not by words, which we have already too much; but, if experience should prove to you, as it has done to me, that my method is the best, make use of it to save your fellow creatures and give glory to God".

He was an inveterate and flawless experimentalist. He said

"This doctrine appeals solely to the verdict of experience. Repeat experiment, it cries aloud; repeat them carefully and accurately, and you will find the doctrine confirmed at every step; and it does what no medical doctrine ever did or could do, it insists upon being judged by the results".

He based his inferences and conclusions on "inductive logic", i.e., drawing general inferences only from repeated experimentation; 'prove all things and hold fast to which is good' was his method and motto.

HOW DOES IT WORK?

Homoeopathy works according to four basic principles.

(1)The principle of 'let like be cured by like'.(2)The principle of trituration/succussion (dynamization or potentization of remedy).(3)The single remedy. (4)The 'minimum dose'.

Homoeopathy is based on the fact that the human body can take care of many diseases itself (except mechanical illness, which requires surgery) and that the symptoms and signs are the results of body's effort to throw off the disease. If these signs and symptoms are suppressed, the body becomes unable to use its self curing systems.

When a homoeopathic remedy is made, it is diluted with a solid (usually lactose) or a liquid (usually alcohol). It is repeatedly diluted at the scales of 1 part of remedy into 10 or 100 parts of diluent. When the diluent is a solid as lactose, the process is called 'trituration'. In case of a liquid as alcohol being used as a diluent the two are shaken vigorously. This is called 'succussion', and the solutions thus produced are called 'potencies'.

The strength of the remedy is expressed as 1C, 2C, 3C ----- 30C, 200C, when each successive dilution is made at the scale of hundred and is called centesimal. When the dilution scale is tenfold the system is called decimal and expressed as 1X, 3X --- 30X in UK, and 1D, 2D, 3D----- 30D in Europe.

As the remedy is triturated or succussed (shaken) repeatedly there comes a stage when there are very few molecules of the original remedy left in the solution. For example when 12C dilution is made there may only be one or no molecule of the remedy left in the solution yet it would still be homoeopathically effective. The process through which a homoeopathic remedy becomes more powerful or energetic when it is serially diluted and succussed is called 'potentisation'.

MECHANISM OF ACTION OF HOMOEOPATHIC REMEDIES

We know that homoeopathic remedies work very well as it has been proved during the last two centuries experience but we must keep two things in mind before we try to understand this. First thing, that homoeopathic remedies are not active in the molecular chemical sense that the ordinary drugs are. The Arndt-Schulz Law expresses the same principle. 'Large doses of a poisonous substance may prove lethal, smaller doses inhibit but trace doses of the same poison can actually stimulate vital cellular function'. This has been proved in the laboratory.

To understand this principle we need to seek help from latest development in nuclear physics. Avogadro's law states that the number of molecules in one gram mole of a substance is 6.023×10^{23} . This means if we dilute some remedy to 10⁻²⁴ (12 C potency), no molecule of the original substance be present. Recent studies have shown that, the water or alcohol in which they were originally diluted might carry information (in the form of energy) about the original substance. The original substance has "imprinted" itself on to the water molecule.

The latest concept in science is that energy rather than mass is at the base of everything. The knowledge of crystal structure and function also indicates how a homoeopathic remedy associates with lactose to form new energy-rich lattices under the effect of physical grinding. By grinding or succussing an increasingly potent remedy with new diluent, more energy is built up in the molecules.

The homoeopathic remedy is given to the patient in low concentration but high Intrinsic Energy State. It is this energy which is then released to stimulate various bio-energetic systems in the body. It has also been suggested by nuclear physicists that such imprinted energy patterns have self-replicating qualities. They may actually 'reproduce' in the bio-energetic systems of the body unlike other drugs are simply metabolized and excreted.

WHAT IS SO SPECIAL ABOUT HOMOEOPATHY?

1. Homoeopathy treats the patient with disease and not only the disease. It does not treat the patient in parts, rather it takes the human body as one, single, interconnected, dynamic unit, consisting of body, mind and spirit. Therefore it is a 'whole person medicine'. It aims at correcting the body's doctor, the 'vital force' which in turn brings back the harmony, homeostasis or equilibrium to the normal.
2. It offers curative remedies for diseases for which others have nothing, both in chronic and acute diseases.
3. The homoeopathic remedies have been developed after repeated experiments (provings) on healthy, intelligent, truthful and dedicated human volunteers, and not on the animals which cannot express their signs and symptoms; especially the emotions, the subjective sensations and feelings. Experiments performed on animals and inferences thus drawn cannot be applied equally to the human beings; it seems an irrational approach. Therefore the true or rational system is the one which utilises the results of experiments carried out on healthy human beings for the healing of other human beings.
4. That's why no homoeopathic remedy had ever been, or will ever be declared obsolete or excluded from the materia medica due to toxic side effects; reason being the rational (natural) approach adopted in preparation.
5. The homoeopathic materia medica is very flexible, comprehensive and stable; it offers more than two thousand remedies. It has following characteristics:-
 - a. The materia medica offers remedies not only for preventing and curing the diseases of human beings but also for animals and birds.
 - b. The remedies are almost always taken by mouth.
 - c. They never produce toxic side effects in the expert hands.
 - d. They can be stored for long periods without losing their activity.
 - e. For the chronic and incurable cases on long term medication, it offers better palliative remedies without any toxic side effects.

f. About twenty remedies can cope with most of everyday diseases and are so safe that they are ideal for self-medication and home treatment.

g. They can also be used as preventives.

h. A specific remedy is selected for every patient which is capable of producing by itself a symptom-complex (artificial disease) similar to that, which it is intended to cure.

SELECTION OF REMEDY

Selection of remedy or remedies in a case depends upon the following criteria.

- a. Knowledge of remedies in the materia medica (the drug picture).
- b. Knowledge of the sick patient (the disease picture).
- c. The art and skill in matching the disease picture with the drug picture.
- d. The causation of disease or symptom-complex.
- e. The temperament and constitution of patient.
- f. The pathology or disease of the patient and laboratory and other investigations.

SELECTION OF POTENCY OF A REMEDY

Potency of the remedy is chosen on the following considerations.

- a. The depth of action of remedy.
- b. The acuteness or chronicity of case.
- c. The susceptibility of the patient.
- d. The plane of action expected of the remedy i.e, the physical, or mental.
- e. Other medicines being used by the patient concurrently.
- f. Habits of patient, like alcohol abuse, smoking, tobacco chewing, drug addiction.
- g. Level of intelligence of the patient.
- h. Age and sex of the patient.
- i. Presence of pathological changes or otherwise in the body tissues.
- j. The patient is incurable or curable. According to homeopathic principle no disease is incurable; it is the patient who is curable or incurable.

HOW TO USE THIS BOOK

1. This book has been arranged in an alphabetical order to enable the reader to select the most appropriate remedy or formula, in minimum possible time and with least effort. This arrangement has made it especially valuable.
2. Most of the formulas contain three remedies, which are easy to be prepared and dispensed.
3. The first or uppermost remedy in the formula is the specific or near-specific for most of the patients corresponding to that rubric or symptom.
4. The remedies have been given in every formula according to their repertorial importance, in descending order. Therefore most of the cases respond positively to the uppermost remedy; whereas remaining cases are cured by the lower two remedies, if used as single remedies.
5. Mostly the potencies recommended are 30, 6x and 200. In some formulas 200 potency may be tried if 30 potency fails. The formulas with 3x-6x potency may be repeated after every one to two hours, especially in acute cases; The 30 potency may be repeated three to four times daily; whereas 200 may be given once or twice daily, depending upon the response of the patient.
6. Lotions, ointments and shampoos or mother tinctures have been prescribed at required places.
7. Concomitant symptoms and diseases have been mentioned frequently with the chief complaint of the patient. These must be consulted to complete the 'totality' of the case.
8. Complete names of remedies have been given at the end of the book with their abbreviations.
9. For some symptoms and diseases more than one formulas have been advised. A suitable formula may be chosen out of these, according to the symptom-similarity and modalities (aggravation and amelioration).
10. Under some ailments a general formula has been given, which is suitable for majority of cases of that disorder.

11. Those fond of using single remedy or classical homeopathy, may also benefit from this work; they may easily find the single indicated remedy out of the good selected group of remedies under the relevant rubric.

12. The symptoms, signs, diseases, laboratory findings, and names of organs have been given in this work, with their respective formulas, to facilitate the process of consultation.

13. The book has been arranged in repertorial fashion so that the practitioner can repertorise the case, if he desire so.

14. The aggravations, causations, and ameliorations have been presented in detailed manner. These will be of tremendous help for accurate and convenient prescribing.

15. Inter-current remedies (icr)

a. Inter-current remedy is one which is given with the selected remedy but at longer intervals, either to remove the block in the way of cure, to complement the remedy or to increase the curative response of the vital force. Examples are: Sulfur, Carbo.veg., Opium, X-rays, etc. These remedies have been indicated below the relevant formulas, with an abbreviation of icr. These are given in the potency of 30 once daily and 200 on alternate days or weekly.

b. Nosodes are the medicinal substances, prepared from the disease products or the excretion of living organisms.

Sarcodes are the medicines prepared from the secretions of healthy organisms. Nosodes and sarcodes are also written below the respective formulas. The recommended potencies are 200-1000, at weekly or fortnightly intervals; must be given in morning before 1200 hours, with a precaution that the formula or selected remedy is not to be given on the day when a nosode or sarcode is given.

Commonly used nosodes are Psorinum, Syphilinum, Tuberculinum, Secale corn.

Examples of sarcodes are Cholesterinum, Insulin, Thyroidin.

16. Selecting the proper potency is a very difficult and intelligent task. This book provides the most effective, reliable and verified potencies along with all the remedies.

17. Where required the cross references have been made.

18. Although the alphabetical order of the rubrics has made the consultation easy and quick, but a detailed index has been provided at the end of the book to make it more convenient and useful. The index must be repeatedly and thoroughly studied and memorized to get the best results from this work.

19. The diseases of one organ or system have been collected at one place under one heading. For example all the eye symptoms and diseases have been listed below the rubric 'EYE'. Similarly the ear, heart, kidney, liver and diseases of nose have been mentioned under their respective alphabets.

20. The potencies recommended during pregnancy are 3x, 6x and 30. The remedy should not be repeated frequently during pregnancy.

21. The readers must use a medical dictionary and a materia medica to get maximum benefit out of this book.

22. Diseases of pregnancy, climacteric and puerperium have been mentioned separately in respective groups.
